

The Hermit trimm'd his little fire,
And cheer'd his pensive guest:

XIII.

And spread his vegetable store,
And gayly press'd, and smil'd; 50
And skill'd in legendary lore,
The ling'ring hours beguil'd.

XIV.

Around in sympathetic mirth
Its tricks the kitten tries,
The cricket chirrups in the hearth, 55
The crackling faggot flies.

XV.

But nothing could a charm impart
To sooth the stranger's woe;
For grief was heavy at his heart,
And tears began to flow. 60

XVI.

His rising cares the Hermit spied,
With answ'ring care opprest:
"And whence, unhappy youth," he cried,
"The sorrows of thy breast?"

XVII.

"From better habitations spurn'd, 65
Reluctant dost thou rove?
Or grieve for friendship unreturn'd,
Or unregarded love?"

XVIII.

"Alas! the joys that fortune brings
Are trifling, and decay; 70
And those who prize the paltry things,

More trifling still than they.

XIX.

“And what is friendship but a name,
A charm that lulls to sleep;
A shade that follows wealth or fame, 75
But leaves the wretch to weep?”

XX.

“And love is still an emptier sound,
The modern fair-one’s jest;
On earth unseen, or only found
To warm the turtle’s nest. 80

XXI.

“For shame, fond youth, thy sorrows hush,
And spurn the sex,” he said:
But while he spoke, a rising blush
His love-lorn guest betray’d.

XXII.

Surpris’d he sees new beauties rise, 85
Swift mantling to the view;
Like colours o’er the morning skies,
As bright, as transient too.

XXIII.

The bashful look, the rising breast,
Alternate spread alarms: 90
The lovely stranger stands confest
A maid in all her charms.

XXIV.

“And ah! forgive a stranger rude,
A wretch forlorn,” she cried;
“Whose feet unhallow’d thus intrude 95
Where Heaven and you reside.”

XXV.

“But let a maid thy pity share,
Whom love has taught to stray;
Who seeks for rest, but finds despair
Companion of her way. 100

XXVI.

“My father liv’d beside the Tyne,
A wealthy lord was he;
And all his wealth was mark’d as mine,
He had but only me.

XXVII.

“To win me from his tender arms, 105
Unnumber’d suitors came;
Who prais’d me for imputed charms,
And felt, or feign’d a flame.

XXVIII.

“Each hour a mercenary crowd
With richest proffers strove; 110
Among the rest young Edwin bow’d,
But never talk’d of love.

XXIX.

“In humble, simplest habit clad,
No wealth nor power had he;
Wisdom and worth were all he had, 115
But these were all to me.

XXX.

“And when, beside me in the dale,
He carol’d lays of love,
His breath lent fragrance to the gale,
And music to the grove. 120

XXXI.

“The blossom opening to the day,
The dews of Heaven refin’d,
Could nought of purity display
To emulate his mind.

XXXII.

“The dew, the blossom on the tree, 125
With charms inconstant shine;
Their charms were his, but wo to me,
Their constancy was mine.

XXXIII.

“For still I tried each fickle art, 130
Importunate and vain;
And while his passion touch’d my heart,
I triumph’d in his pain.

XXXIV.

“Till quite dejected with my scorn, 135
He left me to my pride;
And sought a solitude forlorn,
In secret, where he died.

XXXV.

“But mine the sorrow, mine the fault, 140
And well my life shall pay;
I’ll seek the solitude he sought,
And stretch me where he lay.

XXXVI.

“And there forlorn, despairing, hid,
I’ll lay me down and die;
’Twas so for me that Edwin did,
And so for him will I.”

XXXVII.

“Forbid it, Heaven!” the Hermit cried, 145
And clasp’d her to his breast:
The wond’ring fair one turn’d to chide —
’Twas Edwin’s self that prest.

XXXVIII.

“Turn, Angelina, ever dear!
My charmer, turn to see 150
Thy own, thy long-lost Edwin here,
Restor’d to love and thee.

XXXIX.

“Thus let me hold thee to my heart,
And every care resign:
And shall we never, never part, 155
My life — my all that’s mine?”

XL.

No, never from this hour to part,
We’ll live and love so true;
The sigh that rends thy constant heart,
Shall break thy Edwin’s too.” 160
