5 George and Sarah Green

Who weeps for strangers? Many weptFor George and Sarah Green;Wept for that pair's unhappy fate,Whose grave may here be seen.

For any dwelling-place of man As vainly did they seek. He perish'd; and a voice was heard — The widow's lonely shriek.

Not many steps, and she was left A body without life — A few short steps were the chain that bound The husband to the wife.

Now do those sternly-featured hills Look gently on this grave; And quiet now are the depths of air, As a sea without a wave.

But deeper lies the heart of peace In quiet more profound; The heart of quietness is here Within this churchyard bound.

And from all agony of mindIt keeps them safe, and farFrom fear and grief, and from all needOf sun or guiding star.

O darkness of the grave! how deep, After that living night — That last and dreary living one Of sorrow and affright?

O sacred marriage-bed of death, That keeps them side by side In bond of peace, in bond of love, That may not be untied!
