5 The Song of O'Ruark

Prince of Breffni.

| The valley lay smiling before me, | |
|---|----|
| Where lately I left her behind, | |
| Yet I trembled, and something hung o'er me, | |
| That sadden'd the joy of my mind. | |
| I look'd for the lamp which, she told me, | 5 |
| Should shine when her pilgrim return'd, | |
| But though darkness began to infold me, | |
| No lamp from the battlements burn'd! | |
| I flew to her chamber — 'twas lonely | |
| As if the loved tenant lay dead! — | 10 |
| Ah, would it were death, and death only! | |
| But no — the young false one had fled. | |
| And there hung the lute that could soften | |
| My very worst pains into bliss, | |
| While the hand that had waked it so often, | 15 |
| Now throbb'd to my proud rival's kiss. | |
| There was a time, falsest of women! | |
| When Breffni's good sword would have sought | |
| That man, through a million of foemen, | |
| Who dared but to doubt thee in thought ! | 20 |
| While now — O degenerate daughter | |
| Of Erin, how fallen is thy fame; | |
| And, through ages of bondage and slaughter, | |
| Thy country shall bleed for thy shame. | |
| Already the curse is upon her, | 25 |
| And strangers her valleys profane; | |
| They come to divide — to dishonour, | |

And tyrants they long will remain. But, onward! — the green banner rearing, Go, flesh every sword to the hilt; On our side is Virtue and Erin! On theirs is the Saxon and Guilt.
